

How You Can Help Market Your Book

Before publication . . .

- Add your book's ALA Store page to your email signature
- Add a link to your book's ALA Store page to your Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, and/or Instagram profile; use your book's cover image as your profile or cover image.
- On your LinkedIn profile, add "author of . . ." to the "Professional Headline" and add your book as a "Publication" using this guide.
- Let us know as far in advance as possible if you are attending any conferences or events. We can provide free customized marketing materials that will help you spread the word about your book.
- Consider joining the Goodreads Author Program. Find your book on Goodreads (if it's not there, let us know and we'll add it!) and share the link with your friends and colleagues.

After publication . . .

- Email your contacts (include colleagues, friends, associations you are part of and listservs you subscribe to) to announce your book's publication and make sure you include a link to the book's ALA Store page.
- Post on Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, and/or LinkedIn when your book publishes, linking to the press release or ALA Store page. Pin the post to the top of your feed for extra exposure.
- Recommend that your library, organization, or institutional bookshop purchase copies of your book.
- Get your library, organization, or institution to repost our ALA press release when your book publishes and/or include details in a newsletter or email update.
- Add "author of . . ." to the byline of every article or blog you write (or presentation/talk that you give).

Drop us a line—we're excited to work together with you to make your book a success!
